THE NATIONAL ACTION GUIDE: A listing of national activist organizations, which is available at $1 each.

THE WASHINGTON REVIEW: A monthly review of the local arts, available at $4 a year.

THE DC GAZETTE: Washington's alternative monthly covers local politics and the arts. A $6 subscription includes a subscription to the Washington Review.

CAPTIVE CAPITAL: COLONIAL LIFE IN MODERN WASHINGTON: A look at the non-federal side of Washington by Gazette editor Sam Smith, published by Indiana University Press. William Raspberry of the Washington Post called it "an excellent book for any friend just moving to town. Or any friend who has managed to live here for some time without learning anything about Washington." James Tinney, writing in the Washington Afro-American, said: "It is absolutely 'must' reading for all who are interested in this city's history, its political or private life, or the contributions and personal assets of both the black masses and black leaders." The book can be ordered for $8.93 (including DC sales tax of 43¢)

PUBLIC SCHOOL ENROLLMENT - CHANGES

A report released the end of 1973 found that public elementary school enrollment in the District had dropped 17% or 15,300 students over the previous four years. Nearly all of this drop was in black enrollment. The drop brought DC public elementary schools to their lowest enrollment since 1959. Increases continued in senior and junior high schools. Nonetheless, the total drop in enrollment for the entire system was about 13,000 to a level of 136,000 students.

WORKING WOMEN IN THE DISTRICT

A report released by the DC Commission on the Status of Women in 1972 found that 55.9% of all women 16 years and older in the District work, compared with 50.3% in the metropolitan area and 41.3% nationwide. The working force in the District is 47.8% female in the District compared with 40.5% for the metropolitan area and 37.2% for the country as a whole. 50.9% of women 16 years old and over in husband-wife families with children under six worked, compared with 31.8% in the metropolitan area and 28.2% in the nation as a whole. In the District, the median earnings of males was $6711; for females, $5144.
